Dear Mrs. Brager:

Sorry I did not take the materials that you wanted with me on Thursday, 08-23-84; on the following day, I put a bag inside the screen on your front door, however, and enclosed the promised materials. I trust that you located the materials.

I see (Carbondale News, 9-5-84, p. 6) that your son Frank recently married Sandra Hagen. Believe it or not, your son's wife's mother's maternal grandfather's father (John Russell) and my mother's paternal grandfather (James Russell) were brothers! How small the world is.

Sincerely,
Robert Powell "

Perfectly wonderful AM & early afternoon "around the house" - got up at about 9 A.M. and decided to clean out the wooden bookcase with doors that was left here by the Congregation when they moved to West Clifford. It's a real beauty, with six extremely solid shelves. No contents I put into a large box in the entrance hall - there was a lot of old Elddale material in the Cabinet: hymnals, posters, fairs, attendance rosters, etc., and I have carefully placed it in one box for safe-keeping. Having cleaned out the Cabinet, I applied old English furniture polish very liberally and the Cabinet came to life wonderfully. I emptied three drawers of my metal filing Cabinets and put the three primary bundles of opus 40 therein - the fourth bundle (the old newspapers) I securely tied and put in a series of plastic bags and put it behind my 103rd Street Chest of drawers. No material that I took out of the metal filing cabinets in order to get opus 40 therein, I have placed in the Elddale Cabinet. Herein, also, I have have put all the large accordion folders that I use for: Gurneet Reunion materials, D+H materials, Maple-Wood Cemetery, Northeastern Pennsylvania, and selected family history materials. The arrangement is excellent - and it gives me great pleasure to have opus 40 now securely warehoused at the moment. I then emptied the contents of the former "supplier trunk" and have put them in a small metal Cabinet that John K. gave me. Into the empty trunk, I placed pillows and extra bedding. I then
